Edwards' Address Stirs Debate

Another controversy has burst upon this normally quiet campus!

As a reporter of the student pulpit, I would like to note a decidedly negative reaction to the talk of Dean William F. Edwards in Tuesday's devotionals. It revolved all the excitement caused a few weeks ago by a similar appeal for isolation made in Salt Lake City.

Reaction varied tremendously. Most students had a tendency to praise the courage and directness of the message, while political scientists and historians on campus were dickered for a chance at rebuttal. They felt that only side of our foreign policy had been presented by all devotional speakers who have chosen to delve into the subject this year.

They assert that it's one thing to paint a utopian picture of society as it should be and quite another thing to point the road back from where we now are. It's one thing to criticize in the light of the scriptures policies that are made by those quite unacquainted with those scriptures, and quite another thing to tell an individual his own personal responsibility within the framework of existing conditions. Alternatives were lacking.

Dean Edwards' talk definitely represented a firm conviction concerning the subjects he discussed, but those who disagreed with him said that since the Church allows for a great variance of opinion, especially about politics, there may be virtue in urging the administration to let this student body to hear from a confirmed advocate of internationalism.

These devotional speakers made a tremendous impression upon the student body. While we cannot condone corruption in government, reckless spending, dangerous policies, etc., there should be a fair airing of opinion on the subject of Tuesday's presentation, since there appear to be many who are satisfied that the present foreign policy is prompted by as much wisdom as the current criticism is. —C. ## Underwear Hunt:

Everyone has heard of man hunts, lion hunts, fox hunts, scavenger hunts, and treasure hunts, but have you ever heard of an underwear hunt?

This national college fad is the kind of hunt that makes the news in Gainesville, Florida. There University of Florida men students raided the women's dormitory hunting for souvenirs. "Extensive" damage was caused by the estimated 1000 to 2000 men participants, the university heads reported. In fact, under the strain of it all, several coats explained that every piece of their underwear was missing.

Deadly Decision:

When a second-year student at Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons was asked how large dose of a certain drug he would administer to a patient who was ill with a kind of seizure, he answered assuredly, "Six grains."

A minute later, after thinking over his answer, the student asked if he could correct his last taken answer. The professor glanced at his watch and then said, "Revise your answer if you like, but your patient has now been dead for exactly 45 seconds."

Cribb Course:

In New Mexico last fall a girl decided to drop a class that she had already registered for. She followed the usual procedure for dropping a class and thought she was clear of the matter. However, she later learned that her name was still being called on the roll call. She checked with the registrar's office and was assured that more than one notice of her departure from the class had been sent to the professor. Thinking all was cleared now, she relaxed. When the grades were given she received a little present, nevertheless. She had passed the class with a "C."

Porter Triumphs . . .

. . . Support is Due

by Cal Pratt

An easy-going country-boy simplicity will characterize the new student body president next year.

The school will fare well under the influence of LeRoy Porter. I had a talk with him Saturday, and a talk with him is a convincing experience.

LeRoy has the makings of a good leader, and once he learns the mechanics of the office there may creep out in him some of the qualities so lacking in this position. LeRoy senses his new responsibilities and considers it an opportunity to advance the cause of the school.

If my sense of interpretation serves me correctly his election was the triumph of the typical collegiate element of this university. He is what a political scientist would call the "common man's candidate." And even LeRoy knows this. He is justly proud of it. He was put in by a good campaign, aided tremendously by the personality he brought it up. He is a new-comer to campus leadership and has much to learn in this position.

The only danger evolving from his victory is the possible infiltration of his sense of "second echelon" backers into responsible positions, but even that possibility is lessened by the fact that other candidates with the same area of support exist. LeRoy's election will impress me as the kind who would grant political favors any way.

LeRoy is a native of the little Utah farm community of Anna, and was South Sevier High School student body president. He served a mission in northern California and seemed to have an abundance of ability, energy, and good horse sense.

We who have worked against him in the campaign are wholly willing to lend him our finest efforts for the coming year. We hope that interest in student government grows under him and while we study and play at BYU we may also learn a good lesson in citizenship.

I believe the student body has an able and worthy leader, but as in all cases of elected officials, his success or failure will be determined by the unity and intensity of the support he is given. Let's give him our BEST!

DOWN THE CLOTHES HATCH

BY BOB HATCH

Even though only a few weeks remain on the winter calendar, there seems to be a huge round of spring quarter wintakes yet to come before the seniors don their caps and gowns and the uncles classmen check their draft call, flections, so many activities, parties, and other things in fact that a man has just got to watch that wardrobe and keep it up to date for that best date.

Clark's, the Man's Shop, is the place to go. The Freshers Clark are ready for you and their racks are simply bulging with the latest in the west in the way of collegiate duds.

Take for instance their supply of graduation suits. They've got a layaway plan for you all worried out so you're favorite item will be waiting for you come that last week. Sports suits too, that can be built into combination items for future schools teachers, bus drivers, etc.

And now that Yank. Every one is familiar with the open-book test, and most of us have at one time or another brought a shabby reference library into a quiz room. The day before a big test given in the mechanical engineering department of a Utah University the professor in charge announced that the students would be permitted to bring anything they could carry on their backs. One ingenious student, obviously destined to success, staggered in carrying a great stack on his back. The M. department is now contemplating only closed book exams.

And if you're one of those people who think that you need a tutor and a couple of text books to tie a bowtie, then I've got a suggestion for you. Clark's not only have a most sensational collection of all kinds of bows from the cozy droopies to the cal whisker in many a vicious shade, but they are also equipped with expert tie-tiers. Don't let it go by. With 15 credit hours in the technique of the bow and will teach you in a wink. Drop in for a free lesson. Bring your own tie if you want.

Two rabbit hunters were discussing the question of what rabbits to get. One of them said they ate only carrots, while the other insisted that they should consider entirely of lettuce. So they bought five rabbits and cut them up, finding out that they fed exclusively on turnip greens. Moral: If you are serious about getting by, you must know what you are getting by.

Indian Fashions In Guatemala Told by Native

by Maria Zamora

What do you think that Guatemala means? "Lucky people, people who eat human beings, uncivilization in its whole word." It is probably that you are in a great mistake and sooner or later you will find out the truth of your thoughts. Guatemala, dear folks, means land of trees, flowers, fruits and perhaps—beautiful women. As you will notice in the fashion picture, Guatemala is the land of various costumes, too. This attractive, pretty and simple dress is one of the types of clothes that the Indians wear every day in the town, Coban. It is made by them. The skirt called "corte" has bright colors and is made of silk. The blouse, "anillo" is white with beautiful embroidery in silk. For fiestas and Sundays they have special ones. These are really nice! Indians also have long hair and used to wear large silk ribbons around their heads. They also have a silver necklace, approximately two meters long that is part of the dress.

Costumes Differ

Each little town has different dresses, languages and ways of living. It is interesting and pretty to visit the towns in Guatemala. Tourists like to see the Indians and talk with them and it seems that they enjoy one another's company. Guatemala has many things that are not found in any other country.

We love our native costumes especially our dresses. As I mentioned before, Indians wear the same dresses every day because they have never wanted to change them. They love their kind of dressing and living, they feel happy with their traditions, and nobody can make them destroy what they fight for.

Surprises Ahead

One day if you have the opportunity to go to this country, you will have many surprises and will admire things that you can't even imagine.

I can say that it is not beautiful even though it is a modern city, but it has something pure, lovely, native; things that perhaps only her people can appreciate.

My symbol is a marvelous bird called "quetzal" and means liberty for all her sons. Go to Guatemala.

GUATEMALAN GUIPIL—Maria Zamora models a corte (skirt) and guipil (blouse) which are typical of the everyday clothes of native Guatemalans. Sunday and holiday apparel—there as everywhere—is even nicer than this.

mala and you will be welcomed by everybody. Our symbol waits for you with his wings open to give you protection and happiness during your residence. Go to the country of eternal spring and spend the most delightful vacation that you have ever had. Clear your mind by yourself, and see those things that you don't have here. Later you will know that it is part of your good life to be for a while among "Indians."

lightful vacation that you have ever had. Clear your mind by yourself, and see those things that you don't have here. Later you will know that it is part of your good life to be for a while among "Indians."

Snow Made Utah Seem Like 'Paradise In Whitewash'

Y Calcares Unit Elects Leaders, Accepts 48 Into Membership

Leaders of Y Calcares, women's honorary service organization, were elected recently during formal pledging exercises for 48 new Y.C. pledges.

Carol Ware, Oakley, Ida, outgoing president, released her vote for Margaret Clark, the 1981-82 Y.C. secretary.

Lu Markham, Concord, Calif., was named vice president; Betty Nelson, American Fork, and Pat Turner, Elio, were named secretary and treasurer, respectively. The historian's report will be filed by Mary Ann Carter, Salt Lake City.

The initiates were welcomed by outgoing officers. Alice Warr, Carolyn Edwards, Provo, were president; Margaret Clark, Provo, secretary; Kathy Latimer, Nephi, treasurer; and Lorna Erickson, Richland, Wash., historian and reporter.

The pentangle which is given for outstanding service was awarded to 17 junior girls who are leaving the sophomore junior organization this year. They are: Peggy Affleck, Lenore Benson, Eunice Baynard, JoAnn Stringham, Ida Mae Cook, Ann Whiting, Lucille Rowe, Joyce Whiteley, Betty Hayes, Jackie Dwyer, Carolyn Edwards, Kathy Latimer, Betty Ann Green, Ellen Jeserack, Carol Warr, Jennie Marchant and Willa. In that I chose to bring the Brigham Young University has two versions of it. One is on the other side of the coin and the other is on the same side of the coin. In the lighter side of life was the no-absentment of a girl in Utah. I was engaged to her. She said to China to visit her father and when she comes back she was married to a fellow with a master's degree. When I asked her what was the idea, she said, "The man I married has two deep scars and you have none!" Well, I thought it will be a good idea and a good foresight to come here to get two sheep skins just in case the next one comes along and demands it. Pretty good reason, don't you think?

On the serious side of life was that I was taught by the missionaries that I cannot take the money along with me to Heaven. However, they told me that any knowledge gained on earth may be taken with me for life after this. I thought that was most sensible and logical. I can make use of what ever money I have to gain progression. After all, money is not so bad. It could be a good servant if you use it right. (Money can be a curse if misused.) As a whole, nothing is bad, not even the opium during that season. It applied properly.

Former Business

I was in the real estate business before coming to BYU. I was the first counselor to the Building Fund committee in which we bought the $75,000 mission home in Hilo, Hawaii. (No money was made on this deal.)

It was nothing new in coming to the United States, as I have been coming here annually in the summer to see the general authorities, missionaries, and to take movies of the church activities to show back in Hawaii. However, I can never forget seeing the first real snow on the road when driving to Provo near Cedar City in March 1948. I thought it was the paradise in white wash! And I think I used to break my neck to get up to the 13,000 foot level of Maunakea Maunakea just to fill the vacuum bottle with snow to show it off to my friends! I could get snow here without even getting out of my apartment!

to it. I was used to doing my concentrating in a quiet private office.

My most conscious problem is to acquire an education without altering or destroying my faith of the Gospel. If it does then education defeated my purpose of life. If I were to choose between intellectual pursuit and faith I would rather retain my faith. However, so far, I have been successful in counteracting all learning to make it compatible with religion. Education, like all good wholesome things in life, can destroy if misused just as drinking and smoking can.

Winter Experience

The first winter I spent was novel. Prior to it I thought living in the snow synonym only to the Eskimo. However, I have learned plenty in driving and walking in icy pavement after I have gotten into an automobile accident and getting a black eye from falling down. Is not this an education too?—learning it the hard way. I remembered I once poured a bucketful of water into my windshield to clear it up and it turned to a thick coat of ice. I got home sick for Hawaii when I saw so much white snow, white

Arizona Proceeds Go to Aid Honor

To further the cause of honor at Brigham Young University, the Arizona Days committee has just announced that all proceeds from this week's activities will be turned over to the Honor Council.

In making the announcement, Jack Bowen, Arizona City president, stated that the money would be used by the Honor Council for publicity both on and off campus.

people, and even their minds are white. I thought, the color people are meant to form a colorful background to break the monotony.

Standards High

I think the BYU has the most perfect group of people on earth, perfect in human standards of course. We can never be perfect in the eyes of God as long as we are in mortal stage. I thought the people of Hawaii friendly, but you have us best! What impressed me was the maturity of the average student's behavior and the friendly and helpful faculty! You will agree with me if I say there is no college on earth like it. I earnestly hope that as the BYU grows it will retain its distinctiveness. I think it is a formula for a peaceful world. I am sure God reserved a special blessing for the BYU faculty in life after this. From my standpoint, as a business man, the most amusing thing is the faculty working merely for a good living wage with such talent! If I have not been converted to Mormonism, I would have been shocked! One of them even working for a dollar a year! What love for the Gospel! In the past I have been commercialized everything I learned, but with this inspiring example you can rest assured that I will make use of my knowledge to help my fellowmen just as I have been helped. When I want to go where I will be most useful regarding my material compensation. After all, material compensation is cheap as compared with storing treasure in Heaven.

The most impressive sight in Utah was the fruit tree blossoms. These blossoms later turned into fruit, thus you have the blossoms to feast the eyes and the fruit for your stomach. We in Hawaii have the orchid but no kaula (eating). Aloha A hui hou (So long until we meet again).

More to Come Next Year

by Ted Johnson

Wink up that old pen of yours and get prepared to record another banner year for the Cougars of Brigham Young University. Incidentally, 'Cats,' 'Pumas' and several other handles will give the idea that we're trying to put over. Namely, that the lads from the Y campus are 'aplenty tough hombres' if you know what I mean. If you don't, take a look at the record books of past years and after we get through with this year's summary, you can look at that too.

Last fall, when the flood of students rushed back to the campus, they found that the football team had been haunting the area for some time. In fact, they had already played a couple of lesser important games.

Ted Johnson

roy for the Y.

How did we ever get along without the fieldhouse anyway? It seems almost impossible that the Y ever put out a decent basketball squad with only a cracker box, or was it a cracker-jack box, to play in. After seeing the participation on the part of students and townspeople alike in attending the home games in the marvelous athletic structure, I'm sure that every effort toward its completion was well worth it.

Since the Cougar basketball teams have become nationally famous due to their fine ball playing ability and the outstanding sportsmanship of the team members, it is natural to suppose that the coaching staff and the athletic department will be shooting at putting out even better teams in the future. To my way of thinking, we have enough material returning to school next fall to put together one of the finest aggregations of the region and possibly the nation. With only one senior leaving the team and with such a great crop of Frosh moving up, they make up one of the greatest potential powers to be found on any campus. Even though the cage season is still a mighty jump away, it is well to remember that the BYU basketball team will be in for its share of honors against next winter.

Baseball, track, tennis and golf, which are currently in the heat of their seasons, are giving their competitors one heap-big headache with their aggressive spirit and talented exhibitions. If they continue on in the same track for the remainder of the season, it will be one of the finest spring slates on record.

All-in-all, the fine calibre of teams which the Y has been producing in the past and at present have made BYU one of the teams in the area that everyone wants to beat. Anytime they succeed in winning from the Cougars, they know that they have turned in a mighty fine performance. It doesn't happen too often.

Final Weekend Slated for 2 Cougar Sports

Friday will be a busy day in Provo for the athletes who are participating in either the baseball, tennis or golf squads. The three crews will meet the visiting Utah State Aggies in Provo for the last competition of the year between the two schools. The baseball series that will decide the fate of the Cougars' A conference standing will be played in Timp park at 3 p.m. and at 8 p.m.

Couch Buck Dixon's tennis aggregation will meet the Aggie racketeers on the Y courts at 1 p.m. for their final show of the season. The golfers will compete on the Timp course at the same time. In previous play, the Cats defeated the Farmers 9-0 in their only other meeting that was held in Logan.

Saturday afternoon almost winds up the track competition for coach Clarence Robinson's crew with their participation in the Western division invitational in Salt Lake. Four schools will compete for the conference honors and the Cougar crew is expected to give a good account of their afternoon's activity. Their final fling will come the following weekend when the skyliner meet takes place in Denver. These meets and matches wind up a highly successful year for the Y in the field of sports and gives promise of another top year to come.

Y Saddle Riders To Participate In Coltag Rodeo

Brigham Young University's crew of corni kids will journey to Fort Collins, Colorado, this weekend where they will represent the Cougars in another intercollegiate rodeo. This will be the second meet of the season for the saddle straddlers and they are shooting for a higher berth in this meet than they garnered in the last rodeo in Logan.

The big affair starts in the Ram's stronghold on Friday and a six-man team will leave Provo on Thursday for the two day event, accompanied by two alternates. Two weeks ago, the Y squad finished fifth in a field of ten colleges from seven western states.

The Cat team is currently working toward an invitation to the national intercollegiate championship rodeo that will be held in the Cow Palace in San Francisco in the near future. With competition what it is today, especially from the southwest, the Cougar contingent will have a plenty tough way to go.

This week's rodeo will be the toughest competition that the Y boys have yet tackled since they organized early last spring.

NEARER TO HEAVEN THAN MOST—Ralph Bonham, lanky Cougar high jumper, has been a class by himself with his 5½ leaps. His best effort so far this season is 6 feet 5½ inches. He will be depended upon to garner points in the Western Division meet in Salt Lake Saturday.

Ralph Bonham Overshadows Competition in High Jump

Ralph Bonham, lanky freshman from Pomona, Calif., has been giving Skyline high jumpers a tough time of it as of late. The Teams from Arizona, Idaho, Colorado, Utah and a Hardin-Simmons team will be competing. The Hardin-Simmons squad in particular is nationally ranked.

The group that the Y will send to the Colorado A&M arena include Grant Triney, Dick Smith, Ray Stephenson, Lowell Kennington, Don Jones and Ken Carter. Tom Appah and Fred Stephens will participate in several of the individual events and will act as the alternates for the team.

tall blond athlete has been coping first place in the high jump with amazing regularity.

In the meet which was held in Salt Lake a couple of weeks ago, Bonham hopped over the striped bar on his first try and didn't have to do any more to net the Cougar team five points. That first jump was six feet five and one-half inches, and no else could even come close.

Against Utah State, the height was not quite as high, but even then, he completely outclassed his opposition in clearing six feet two inches. Bonham was also a member of the freshman basketball team last winter.

Crucial Series With Farmers to Affect Western Division Baseball Crown

by Ted Johnson

Hot, heavy and plenty tough is what the Skyline baseball race has become. The four teams in the western division have been at each other's throats throughout the season and have been battling fiercely for a lead in the diamond sport. The race is now wide open, as it has been from the opening game of the season, several weeks ago.

The Cats have a big problem facing them as they are preparing for their last two games of the season and they still have a very good chance to wind up in the winner's circle, along with Utah and Montana. Here is how the situation stands, going into the final round of competition. Utah and Montana are currently tied for first place in the circuit, since the Utes copped both games from the Utah Staters on Tuesday night in Salt Lake. The scores for those games were 44 and 52 for the Redskins. The losses gave the Utah Staters a record of three wins and seven losses, with two games yet to be played. The Utah team and the Montana crew have completed their twelve game schedule with a record of seven wins and five losses.

BYU's Cats take on the Utah Staters in the final fling of the spring season and both games will be played on the home diamond. The first game will get underway at 3 p.m. and the second game will be played in the Flyer park under the lights beginning at 8 p.m.

Since the games will be played on the home diamond and since the conference crown is at stake, the Cougars are expected to give their best performances of the year and give a good account of themselves in their final fling. They will also be out to break a jinx that has been following them all season. Every series that the Cougars have played in the 1962 slate has resulted in a split between the two teams. The Cats are strong favorites for the two final flings.

With last Saturday's loss to the Utes still fresh in their minds, the Y crew will be out to even the score and the Utah Staters will be on the receiving end of the Cat's wrath. Big Ray Lish, Y hurler, lost a two-hitter going into the eleventh inning before a few wild errors handed the Utah lads four runs and the game. Up until that time, it was one of the finest college games ever witnessed in Provo. The fielding was plenty sharp and the hurling by both teams was exceptional.

The pitching assignments for the crucial series will probably be handed to Ray Lish, Bruce Bills or Gary Johnson. Should the Y win both games, the loop will be in a three-way tie for first.

VAL HYLIC

The Val Hylric social unit is planning a novel and unique type of dinner-dance for next weekend.

The affair is slated for the Homestead near Heber City on May 22 and 23.

The unit members and their guests will leave Provo by private car for the resort and will hold their dinner-dance that evening in the lovely ballroom at the Homestead. That evening girls will be accommodated in the dormitories on the grounds and the fellows will push back the tables and sleep on the dining room floor. Saturday morning, the group will have breakfast and then depart for a morning's fun which will include hiking, horse back riding and a picnic at noon. The afternoon will be spent in swimming and in the evening a "South Sea" show has been planned with an island-style meal following the show. Decorations for the Saturday night affair are being brought from Los Angeles by members of the unit and everything is being prepared to make this one of the most outstanding activities of the year. Dr. Pull is the adviser for the group and he and Mrs. Pull will accompany them as their chaperones.

Sunday Concert To Feature Mixed Chorus

The annual spring formal concert of the Brigham Young University mixed chorus will be presented next Sunday evening at 8:30 p.m. in the Joseph Smith auditorium.

In addition to the choral numbers, there will also be a group of three instrumental numbers by the University Brass choir conducted by Norman Hunt. The Brass choir will also accompany the chorus on one number.

Numbers to be sung by the chorus will range from works of Bach and Handel to such modern composers as Utah's own Leroy Robertson and Crawford Gates. Beginning the concert will be the chorale, "Sleepers, Awake," from Bach's Cantata Number 140, followed by "He Watching Over Israel" from the "Elijah" oratorio by Mendelssohn; "Come to the Wood," based on Chopin's Etude Op. 10 No. 3; and "Hail, Bright Abode," from Wagner's opera "Parsifal."

Following the instrumental group, the chorus will sing Lowell Burman's arrangement of "The Battle Cry of Freedom," "Annie Laurie" by Scott, and "The Time For Making Songs Has Come" by Grant Fletcher.

The final group of choral numbers will include Tullidge's "An Angel from On High," Handel's "And the Glory of the Lord" from "The Messiah," and Leroy Robertson's "Motet on the Traditional Hymn, All Creatures of Our God and King." The latter number will be accompanied by the brass choir.

The arrangements of "Annie Laurie" and "An Angel from On High" to be used in the concert were done by Crawford Gates, conductor of the 26-voice group.

Accompanists for the concert will be Mary Jane Marsden and LaVonne Thomander, pianists; and Donna Nelson, organist. LaVonne Thomander is assistant student conductor of the chorus.
